Key Analysis & Insights

1. USER BASE COMPOSITION

The platform has 23 registered accounts, broken down into 11 customers, 11 theatre managers, and 1 administrators. The customer segment is the primary revenue-generating cohort - every ticket booking originates from this group. The ratio of customers to total users (47.8%) is a healthy indicator of the platform's focus on end-user growth. Manager accounts represent theatre partnerships, and their count should grow proportionally with new theatre onboarding to ensure each venue has a dedicated operational contact.

2. REGISTRATION TRENDS & GROWTH

22 new users registered in the last 30 days, providing a recent acquisition velocity benchmark. A rising registration count over successive months indicates successful top-of-funnel marketing and organic growth, while a plateau suggests the need for refreshed acquisition campaigns. Understanding the month-over-month registration trend is critical for forecasting future booking volumes: each new registered user represents a potential repeat booker whose lifetime value compounds with each subsequent transaction on the platform.

3. USER ENGAGEMENT & RETENTION STRATEGY

Beyond registration numbers, the quality of user engagement is determined by booking frequency and average spend per user. Implementing a tiered loyalty programme - rewarding users who book 3 or more times per month with priority seat selection or cashback credits - would incentivise repeat visits and increase average revenue per active user. For inactive registered users who have not booked in 60+ days, personalised reactivation emails featuring upcoming blockbusters or location-based show recommendations have proven effective in similar B2C ticketing platforms.
